

The FCC should not loosen ownership rules to allow cross-ownership in a local market or to allow media conglomerates to increase their ownership of local TV affiliates. This will hurt diversity and localism. I reached this conclusion after attending the public hearing in Richmond in February.